Americans Invited to Bid for Proposed Improvements.

LARGE HEBREW POPULATION

Jealousy Caused by Improvements and Inferiority in Accomplishments of Russians.

BY WILLIAM E. CURTIS.
Special Correspondence of The Star and the Evening Post, London.

Odessa, Russia, August 10, 1910.
We crossed from Sebastopol to Odessa by steamer in about eighteen hours, stopping to discharge cargo and passengers at the ancient port of Eupatoria. The Greek name denotes the origin of that town, which was founded by the Greeks, the Christians, but is now of comparative insignificance.

In the morning we found ourselves in a crowded harbor under a bluff 200 or 250 feet high, crowned with several monumental buildings and presenting a noble front to the sea.

At the extreme western end of the town beyond the expanse of foliage of Alexander II Park are the buildings of an industrial exposition now in progress. Their fantastic forms are so white that they look like the fancy ornaments with which confectioners decorate wedding cake.

Town Built by Catherine II.

Odessa is comparatively a new town, only a little more than a hundred years old, and entirely a Russian creation. It was founded by Catherine II, who, in 1789, by the Russian forces under Gen. Ribas during the war with Turkey which Catherine II provoked for conquest. The title of the property was conveyed by the great Turk to the czar of all the Russias by the treaty of Jassy December 20, 1791.

It was the Duke de Richelieu, a refugee from the French revolution, who came to Russia and was given an important commission in the army, was appointed governor of the province, and he was the only a few thousand, but his enterprise and taste made it a beautiful and important city.

Upon his death Count Woronzoff, afterward prince-to whom I have alluded several times in these letters, succeeded him in the Crimea—took up the work where Richelieu left off, and proved himself a capable and energetic administrator. He encouraged the public library, the museum, the municipal opera house, and schools of medicine attached to the university were encouraged and subsidized by him.

He gave an impetus to trade and commerce which lasted for half a century. He built roads into the interior, dredged the harbor, created docks and encouraged the introduction of profitable industries.

Woronzoff Educated in England.

Woronzoff was born in St. Petersburg in 1782 and was the son of a distinguished statesman. His father was ambassador to London during his boyhood, which caused him to be educated there, and he took a degree at Cambridge University.

Returning to Russia, he obtained a commission in the army and commenced his military career as a subaltern in the Caucasian regiment commanded by a famous Georgian prince, Tarkhanoff. He proved a brilliant soldier and was promoted to the rank of major and was the epitome of a major general before he was thirty years old.

In 1812 he was made commander of a division of grenadiers. During the retreat of the French he followed closely upon their flank and was instrumental in the capture of the city of Moscow.

At the conclusion of the war he went to England and remained until he was thirty years old. He was afterward governor of the Caucasus and the Crimea. In all three provinces his memory is revered and many public works are named after him.

Woronzoff Palace on a Bluff.

The most conspicuous object upon the bluff that overlooks the harbor of Odessa is a mansion built by Prince Woronzoff and occupied by him for many years. It is of classical design, with walls of granite, and is surrounded by limited but handsomely embellished grounds.

The chief feature of the palace is a large granite column detached from the house and rising from a little promontory that projects from the bluff. It has been seen for a long distance and invests with a classical character the earliest impression of the city.

The mansion is spacious, containing thirty large apartments, and is entered through an extensive courtyard under a monumental gate. For several years it has been occupied as a school for engineers.

In 1810, when the first census was taken, Odessa had 9,000 population; in 1910 it has 520,000, and there has been a steady increase during the last five decades, which is due to the rivalry of other ports which attract trade because of better facilities, better rail connections, and better facilities for doing business.

The strong and violent socialistic element in Odessa has also increased, and by frightening away capital and preventing the establishment of manufacturing industries because of the fear of labor strikes.

About 25 per cent of all the grain exported from Russia is shipped from Odessa, and until about ten years ago the total output reached nearly three million bushels, but the unwholesome methods of handling freight, and the expense as to be practically prohibitory. Sometimes the freight charges are as high as 25 cents per bushel of thirty-six pounds.

Nicolaieff, Kherov and Rostov-on-the-Don have such superior facilities that Odessa cannot recover the trade until she improves her docks and harbor and mechanical appliances for handling freight.

Improvements Are Contemplated.

The imperial government has plans for extensive improvements in the harbor of Odessa to furnish suitable facilities for handling the grain at a total expenditure of $10,000,000. A commission from St. Petersburg and the municipal officials have made three surveys and the best designs which have been submitted to the duma for approval and the necessary appropriations.

The work will be done under the direction of the minister of commerce and labor at St. Petersburg, and the work will be done under the direction of the minister of commerce and labor at St. Petersburg, and the work will be done under the direction of the minister of commerce and labor at St. Petersburg.

The ministry of commerce and labor at St. Petersburg will give all the information concerning details that may be desired. John H. Groat, United States consul at Odessa, has already forwarded to the bureau of manufactures at Washington sketches of the plans, which may be studied there by those who are interested in the subject.

The imperial government owns the railways, but must have the consent of the duma before transportation facilities are improved.

Odessa's Bad Reputation.

Odessa has the reputation of being a fast city, one of the most immoral communities in Europe, and the young Russians are given to gambling and dissipation of all kinds.

At night the streets are brilliantly lighted and are crowded with promenaders of both sexes. There are many cafes on the sidewalks, in the interior courts of the business section and in the parks and squares. All night the air is filled with music and laughter and pleasure-seekers turn night into day.

One is inclined to wonder when these crowds of men he sees in the cafes and theaters attend to their business. But when asked to be out in full force tomorrow to buy a supply of it at this saving.

Yard-wide Soft-English Cambric; firm woven grade, free from dressing. Especially desirable for women's and children's undergarments. Usual 10c value at 6 3/4c a yard.

200,000 Hebrews in Odessa.

There are more than 200,000 Hebrews in Odessa—exceeding one-third of the entire population—and, as everywhere else, they control the banking, the manufacturing, the export trade, the milling, the distilling, the sale of real estate and the establishments and practically everything of industrial and commercial enterprise. And, naturally, they are hated by the Russians and the Armenians.

The prejudice against the Hebrew population, elsewhere as well as here, is due to economic rather than religious reasons—simply because they are getting richer and more prosperous, while the Russians are losing ground in all the professions and trades. They have wasted their capital in bad investments and dissipations and extravagance and are forced to mortgage their property to the Hebrews to keep up appearances.

In the meantime Hebrews have been securing control of all the profitable enterprises and lines of business in Odessa. Their sons show the same earnestness and energy in the professions that their fathers show in the counting room. Therefore they make the best doctors and lawyers and engineers, and their services are in demand while the Russian members of the professions are idly waiting for business.

A Russian will employ a Hebrew lawyer or doctor or engineer in preference to one of his own race, not because he loves the Hebrew or desires to encourage him, but simply because he recognizes his shrewdness and his success.

Russians All Improvident.

The same is true among the working classes. The Russian laborer spends his wages for vodka. The Hebrew puts his in the savings bank. The Russian laborer never saves anything. The Hebrew is economical about everything, like a miser, but wears much better; 24 inches wide, regular quality. Sale price, $1.25.

Extra Heavy Rustling Quality. Biped, extra heavy, 36 inches wide, firm, close-woven texture, every yard fully guaranteed to wear; the best wearing and most durable. Sale price, $1.25.

These differences in habits produce the results which exasperate the Russian and drive him to the persecution of his race. He considers it an insult to himself and his race whenever he hears of a brilliant achievement or instance of great power among the Hebrews, and the spirit of envy and jealousy so aroused is the cause of persecution.

The newspapers today announce that the czar of all the Russias has been graciously pleased to permit the Hebrews to study in the medical schools of the empire, and that such treatment is required.

This is considered a tremendous concession and a brilliant victory among the Hebrews, and the Russians who are in the habit of spending the summer at the pleasure and health resorts.

Guilty's License Given TO GROOM BY MISTAKE

Error of Towson Officials Embarrasses Mr. Boyd, Who Intended Marriage.

BALTIMORE, September 12.—When a clerk asks the color of one's eyes and hands out a gunner's license instead of a marriage license, it happened to William Boyd, seventy-seven years old, of Stevenson, Baltimore county, at Towson Saturday, one is liable to feel like shooting out all the electric lights on the way back.

But Mr. Boyd did nothing of the kind. He merely asked the clerk for a gunner's license, and he did not want to shoot electric lights, or squirrels, or anything else. He wanted to get married, and he went back to Towson and told the officials all about it. They were sorry. They mildly contended that Mr. Boyd may have known that the color of a gunner's license is never taken when he wants to get married, but Mr. Boyd, although a veteran of three wars, did not know that positively.

Boyd Goes for License.

After proposing to Miss Elizabeth Ann Daniel, who is fifty-one years old, and being duly accepted as a partner of her joys and sorrows, Mr. Boyd went to Towson to get the license. He waited until 10 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 11 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 12 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 1 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 2 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 3 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 4 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 5 o'clock, and he did not want to wait until 6 o'clock, and he did
